

Dear Pre-K Parents:

Hello! My name is Ms. Woodard, and I am writing you all to let you know that I am the lead teacher for the Pre-K class. I am so excited to be a servant leader to both you and your children. I am alumni of the City School back when it was named Center City Academy for the high school level. I am currently working on my M.Ed. in curriculum and instruction and will be done June of 2021.

Pre-K is a year of exploration and discovery. At this age, their minds are like sponges and they are figuring out how the world around them works, both inside and outside the classroom. This means that they are growing everyday socially, emotionally, physically, and intellectually. As you send your child to school every day, there will be something new that you notice about them. It may be their height, they remembered a vocabulary word we learned, or it may be as simple as them realizing something new about themselves. At this early stage of their development, my hope is that we can partner together to make sure they are getting the best learning experience possible, and reinforce what they are learning in school at home.

The co-teacher Ms. Cooper and I will have high expectations for all of our Pre-K students. These are crucial years of their development, and we are prepared to make sure that they are geared for success and are given the tools that are needed in Pre-K to thrive in Kindergarten. Praying for a great rest of the school year, and hoping to build strong relationships with all of you as well!

If you have any questions, feel free to contact me through class dojo or email me at dcollins@cityschool.org. The school phone is 215-769-5363. I am looking forward to meeting with you all!

Blessings,

Ms. Woodard
